Date: 12th October 2021

No. of Participants/ Beneficiaries: 55

Highlights: The youth of this country should make people aware of the fact that they should stop this stereotyping of trying to find a perfect human. Recently, the issue of objectifying of women by commenting on their dressing sense and choices was raised by the activists. But it is essential to realize that not just the women, objectification is faced by the entire human race.

Highlights: Proactively establishing a set of professional ethics can help you navigate the complex interactions and relationships encountered in the workplace. After all, at work you have relationships with co-workers, employers, customers, clients, users, and the community. In order to navigate this complexity, all of us need to understand the ethics for each of these relationships. In a broader sense, we need professional ethics because of the impact that our actions have on society as a whole.
